An aerial map of the University of Illinois at Chicago campus, showing the layout of the main building complex. The map is color-coded to represent different building types and functions. A legend in the bottom right corner identifies the colors: yellow for 'Academic Buildings', orange for 'Residential Buildings', blue for 'Library', green for 'Student Center', and red for 'Other Buildings'. The map shows a large central building complex with several wings, surrounded by parking lots and other campus infrastructure. The main building is labeled 'Main Building' and the library is labeled 'Library'. The student center is labeled 'Student Center' and the residential buildings are labeled 'Residential Buildings'. The map also shows various other buildings, including the 'Law School' and 'Medical Center'.
